Ref. No. RBC/2019-20	Date : 11/07/2020
Action Taken Report by CDC on Feedback Analysis Report (Session 2019-2020)
As mentioned in CDC meeting Hon. CDC member Shri. Natthuji Manapure put up the feedback analysis in front of committee.
Through the feedback analysis is satisfactory but for the betterment of college we must improve ourselves in the department of library and computer laboratory. Teacher must provide ICT tool based education to the students.
There was also discussion about organizing the seminars or workshops which will improve the different skills of students regarding employment.

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given below it. Certain words have been highlighted for your attention.

The 103rd Constitution Amendment Act introducing special measures and reservations for 'economically weaker sections' (EWS) has been perceived as being obviously unconstitutional. This article is scptical of such a reading and takes the view that a constitutional challenge to the amendment will take us into unclear constitutional territories. The strongest constitutional challenge might not be to the amendment itself but to the manner in which governments implement it. There is no foregone conclusion to a potential challenge and we would do well to start identifying the core constitutional questions that arise. To be clear, I am here concerned only with questions that arise within constitutional law. Article 15 stands amended enabling the state to take special measures (not limited to reservations) in favour of EWS generally with an explicit sub-article on admissions to educational institutions with maximum 10% reservations. The amendment to Article 16 allows 10% reservations (and not special measures) for EWS in public employment and does so in a manner that is different from reservations for Scheduled Caste/Scheduled Tribes and Other Backward Classes. The amendment leaves the definition of 'economically weaker sections' to be determined by the state on the basis of 'family income' and other economic indicators. Also critical to this amendment is the exclusion of SC/STs, OBCs and other beneficiary groups under Articles 15(4), 15(5) and 16(4) as beneficiaries of the 10% EWS reservation. A good point to start the constitutional examination is the Supreme Court's view on reservations based purely on economic criteria. Eight of the nine judges in Indra Sawhney (November 1992) held that the Narasimha Rao government's executive order (and not a constitutional amendment) providing for 10% reservations based purely on economic criteria was unconstitutional. Their reasons included the position that income/property holdings cannot be the basis for exclusion from government jobs and that the Constitution was primarily concerned with addressing social backwardness.

1. Which of the below sentences summarizes the key idea of the passage?

- A) The constitutional amendment providing 10% reservations based on economic criteria
- B) Constitutional amendment brought into force using the constituent power of Parliament
- C) The ambiguity of reservations for the poor
- D) 'Basic structure' of the constitution
- E) None of the above

2. Which of the following words is the most similar in meaning to the word 'explicit' as given in the passage?

- A) Sufficient
- B) Citing
- C) Violation
- D) Suggestive
- E) Emphatic

3. Which of the following words is the most similar in meaning to the word 'indicators' as given in the passage?

- A) Alleviate
- B) Touchstone
- C) Substantive
- D) Prerogative
- E) Misplaced

4. Which of the following words is the most opposite in meaning to the word 'obviously' as given in the passage?

- A) Definitely
- B) Evidently
- C) Manifest
- D) Perhaps
- E) Undeniably

5. Which of the following words is the most opposite in meaning to the word 'sceptical' as given in the passage?

- A) Certain
- B) Cynical
- C) Defiant
- D) Beneficiary
- E) Adequately

6. Which of the following stands TRUE as per the reading of the given passage?

- A) The Supreme Court's view on reservations based purely on economic criteria is completely constitutional.
- B) The constitution is only concerned with addressing social backwardness and all the 'economic status' of the individual as a basis of reservation.
- C) The 10% reservation leaves the definition of 'economically weaker sections' to be determined by the army on the basis of 'family income' and other economic indicators.
- D) The idea of 10% reservation for the EWS has been taken from the constitution of America.
- E) None of the above.

7. The author is mainly concerned with which of the following?

- A) Excluding the SCs, STs and OBCs from the amendment.
- B) Protecting the rights of the economically weaker section of the country.
- C) The flaws in the amendment that arise within the constitutional law.
- D) The involvement of the government in the matters of the Supreme court.
- E) All of the above.

8. Why is the 10% reservations based purely on economic criteria considered to be unconstitutional?

- A) The economic status of a person cannot be the basis for exclusion or inclusion in government jobs.
- B) The Constitution of India is primarily concerned with the upliftment of the socially backward section of the country.
- C) The 10% reservation changes the definition of the 'economically weaker sections'.
- D) The exclusion of SC/STs, OBCs and other beneficiary groups from the reservation.
- E) All of the above.

Read the passage carefully and select the correct answer for the given blank out of the given alternatives.

Microeconomics is the study of individual economic units of the economy whereas macroeconomics is the study of the economy as a whole (1) and its aggregates. Again, it would be useful to know that there are two main schools of economic thought—Classical School and Keynesian School. According to Classical School, (i) An economy as a whole always (2) at the level of full employment due to free play of market forces in a free economy and that (ii) Supply creates its demand. Till early 1930s Classical doctrine of automatic full employment was largely accepted. But the Great Depression of the early 1930s (1929-33) exploded the myth that automatic working of market (3) would ensure the equilibrium level of income consistent with full employment of resources. Although the USA and other Western countries were highly

(4) with well developed basic industries, electric power, means of transport and communication, banks and other financial institutions, yet there was (5) fall in the level of output, income and employment. Classical could not explain this phenomenon during the world-wide depression. It was against this (6) that the well-known British economist J.M. Keynes propounded his theory and wrote his famous book "General Theory of Employment, Interest and Money," published in 1936 which brought about a revolution in economic thought called the Keynesian Revolution. Keynes criticized the Classical assumption of full employment and developed a new theory known as Macroeconomic Theory. Thus, during Great Depression of 1929-33, strong desire to control business cycles in advanced economies and to develop backward economies are the main factors which have (7) to the development of modern macroeconomics. In recent years, the subject matter of (8) has been made to fall in two main branches, namely Microeconomics and Macroeconomics.
